

Ceyhun Ozsoy

Born in Turkey, Ceyhun Ozsoy trained at the Ankara Government Conservatory and spent 18 years as a soloist and principal dancer with the Turkish National Ballet. His career includes notable performances in major classical works and collaborations with some of ballet's most influential figures, including Dame Ninette de Valois and John Neumeier. He later danced with Bayerische Staatsoper in Munich and served as Ballet Master for Delta Festival Ballet in New Orleans. Now based in Dallas, Ceyhun is the founder of Ozsoy School of Ballet and continues to share his wealth of experience with aspiring dancers around the world, including at the Joffrey Ballet School. Ceyhun is also the Artistic Director of the Joffrey Dallas Summer Intensive and the Joffrey Texas full time trainee program.
